Arouca, 14 de novembro de 2025

PERFINOX announces the full integration of CAMBRA-SISTEM into its corporate structure, consolidating all automation, electrical engineering, and control system activities previously carried out under the CAMBRA-SISTEM brand. This strategic integration strengthens PERFINOX's position as a leading European provider of advanced process solutions for high-viscosity food products and reinforces its commitment to delivering excellence, innovation, and complete turnkey systems to the global food industry.

Founded in Vale de Cambra, Portugal, CAMBRA-SISTEM has, over the years, built a solid reputation in the development of industrial automation solutions. Its integration into PERFINOX represents the natural evolution of a long-standing partnership between the two companies, aligning capabilities and technical expertise under a unified direction. From this point forward, all products, services, and responsibilities formerly associated with CAMBRA-SISTEM will be fully managed and provided by PERFINOX.

This transition ensures total continuity in the support of all existing projects, safeguarding the technical knowledge, service history, and operational standards that customers have come to expect. The integration strengthens PERFINOX's engineering and automation capabilities while enabling greater operational efficiency and a more cohesive technological offering.

By combining the process engineering expertise of PERFINOX with the automation know-how of CAMBRA-SISTEM, the company further expands its ability to design, manufacture, automate, test, commission, and support end-to-end solutions for high-demand industrial applications. Clients will benefit from a streamlined experience, enhanced service responsiveness, and a reinforced commitment to quality and innovation.

PERFINOX remains dedicated to transparency and professionalism throughout this transition and reaffirms its mission to deliver technologically advanced, reliable, and efficient process systems that meet the highest international standards. The integration of CAMBRA-SISTEM marks an important milestone in the company's growth trajectory and strengthens its role as a key global partner in the food processing industry.
